Theater Is Packed With Audience At Renewal Of Inquest Into Death

HIT ON HEAD, SAYS EXPERT
Pathologist Sets Aside Theory Of Drowning And Poisoning

By Associated Press
Fond du Lac—Setting aside the theory of poisoning and drowning in the death of William Peters, young Holand farmer found dead in a well at Waupun, Dec. 31, Dr. C. H. Bunting, state pathologist, Tuesday testified at the resumption of the inquest that the man's death might have been caused by a blow on the head, which while not causing a fracture, was sufficiently heavy to bring about death by concussion of the brain. "Such a blow," he said, "might have been caused by some blunt instrument such as a rounded club or a fork handle," the doctor's report said.

"The blow, to my opinion, was delivered before death, but what happened from a criminal point of view before Peters died it was hard to figure out. From the position and character of the injury behind Peters' left ear, it could not have been produced by a fall. This injury, I feel is not explicable except on the ground of direct violence. If Peters could not have got into the well where he was found he must have been put there. No one would have put him there who was not criminally involved in some way. The blow on the head seems to have been the only sign of external violence at least that must have happened before death, and there you are."

The Davison theater at Waupun was packed Tuesday morning when testimony was resumed before Coroner Joseph Murray.

KING GEORGE TAKES UP RUHR IN TALK

Trying Not To Hurt Allies, He Says In Address, Opening Parliament

By Associated Press
London—The Ruhr question was stressed by King George Tuesday in his address from the throne opening the second session of the fourth parliament of his reign.

He declared that although the British government was unable to participate in the Ruhr operations, it was setting in such a way as not to add to the difficulties of Great Britain's allies.

The king disposed of the American debt question in one sentence, saying that he welcomed the settlement "which reflects the determination of our people to meet their obligations." The remainder of the speech was devoted largely to an expression of the hope that the Turkish question might be settled. The sovereign also touched on domestic problems, particularly unemployment.

REPUBLICANS FACE TEST IN NEXT 18 DAYS

Action On Ship And Debt Bill To Decide Fate Of 1924 Vote

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1923 by The Post Pub. Co.

Washington—Today begins a three week period which will have a decisive influence on the opportunity of the Republican party to succeed itself in 1924. Only eighteen legislative days remain in which the Republicans with their large majorities in the senate and house can push their programs through. Next session which convenes in December, will see many new faces and a narrow majority in each house. That always means difficulty for party measures, much debate, much compromise to suit the minority and to prevent defections inside the party.

President Harding has significantly placed as paramount the shipping bill. He even has given it right of way over the acceptance in the senate of the British debt terms. The house put the British debt plan through by an overwhelming vote in short order. The senate will pass it too but Mr. Harding's lieutenants in the senate have advised him that the opponents of the ship subsidy will use as a device for delay the bill amending the refunding law and permitting acceptance of the British debt terms. It would be difficult to stop prolonged debate on the British debt measure and the ship subsidy bill could easily be sidetracked by such tactics. So the president and his supporters feel they must push the ship subsidy bill up to the point where it seems impossible to get a vote of delay.

Mr. Harding's taken-and then a British debt proposal can be acted on in ample time.

BUSY DAYS THESE

In the last days of every session of congress, bills of all kinds get tangled up with each other. The friends of particular measures press for action and will threaten delay on something that the other fellow wants unless they can be assured of support for their own projects.

The fact is waiting on the house to act on the Loriot-Anderson and Capper bills on rural credits and if these two measures are not handled satisfactorily there may be delay on the part of the senate in accepting the report of the conference committee to be appointed by both houses to adjust the differences between the senate and house measures.

DEBATE IN NIGHT WORK

United States government at the minimum amount of advantage out of the eighteen days remaining, administration leaders decided on night sessions. This will soon give the senators who want to talk on ship subsidy every chance to speak and yet it will prove conclusively whether there is a filibuster against the ship subsidy bill. Should a filibuster develop, it will be possible to determine how long the British debt bill can be laid aside before being brought to the attention of the senate for final action. As between ship subsidy and the British debt proposal, the administration would, of course, choose the latter as the sums involved are greater and a settlement of the problem is due Great Britain as a matter of courtesy if not direct obligation because the British hasten action in order to give the United States government a chance to lay the matter before the present session of congress.

The ship subsidy bill is an administration measure and a party measure in every sense of the word. Defeat would be a bitter pill to swallow and would reveal that even with a big majority the Republicans couldn't get their own president's proposals through. The minority know the political advantage in killing such subsidy. It will add the opponents of the administration in further undermining the prestige of the administration in the next session of congress when so many radicals will take their seats in congress. The administration cannot afford to be beaten on ship subsidy. The votes are lined up to pass it but can the administration leaders force a vote? It's a preliminary game which will tax to the utmost the ingenuity of the oldest hands at filibustering and steering. And at this writing it looks as if the administration by night sessions or cloture may force a vote.

DEBT MEASURE GETS RIGHT OF WAY IN SENATE

Ship Bill Is Laid Aside Following Agreement With Leaders

COMPROMISE IS AFFECTED

President Plans "Real Fight" For Marine Measure As Soon As First Bill Gets Vote

By Associated Press

Washington—Agreement was reached Tuesday by senate Republican leaders to lay aside the administration shipping bill Wednesday for consideration of the British debt settlement legislation.

President Harding was said to have relieved his belief that the ship bill should not be put aside, and the agreement reached Tuesday appeared to be in the nature of a compromise. It contemplates that when the legislation comes up again it will be pressed vigorously, the president having determined according to the Republican leaders to wage "a real fight" for its passage. The president was told however, at the conference that the fate of the bill was uncertain, the Republican organization being not yet positive it could muster a majority. There was a possibility he was informed, that the bill might be amended in a drastic way before the vote could be reached.

TAKE UP DEBT BILL

Washington—The British debt funding bill was taken up in the senate Tuesday under an agreement reached as conferences between President Harding and Republican leaders for laying aside the administration shipping bill temporarily but without displacing it from privileged status.

Later Senator King, Democrat of Utah, objected to the plan of the Republican leaders for keeping the shipping bill in privileged status and on motion of Senator Jones in charge of the shipping bill the ship measure was formally laid aside and the debt funding bill given the right of way.

Unanimous consent to take up the debt measure was given at the request of Chairman McCumber of the finance committee. The leaders said they hoped to complete debate on it by Wednesday night.

The new organization in addition plans to head off the growing influence of women in university affairs and to put a curb on expensive social functions that the coeds are fostering.

DINEY ON TRIAL FOR SHOOTING DOG

Lonsdorf Withdraws As Counsel Because Of Election To Prosecutor

The first case to be tried in the extra session of circuit court this week was the appealed case of E. H. Diney. Oneida farmer Diney was convicted in municipal court several weeks ago for shooting the dog of a Kaukauna man named Helmar F. Damrow. Taking of testimony was to begin Tuesday afternoon, the time available in the forenoon having been taken up by the drawing of a jury.

Examination of jurors was directed chiefly at whether they were owners of dogs or prejudiced against them, and whether farmers or hunters. Fred V. Heinemann, former district attorney, was in charge of the prosecution. District Attorney John A. Lonsdorf was originally the counsel for the defense, but because of his position, Attorney John McHale of the law firm of Martin, Martin & Martin of Green Bay, was secured to defend Diney.

Others, however, believe he was accidentally killed by a train.

'U' Will Not Suppress Scorpion Worst Cold Wave Is On Way East

Madison—There will be no suppression of The Scorpion, new University of Wisconsin publication edited by David Sinclair, son of Upton Sinclair, novelist and J. H. Brooks, Delcav, Wis., S. H. Goodnight, dean of men, announced Monday night.

He held a conference with the two students Monday afternoon, following a letter from the editors that they would be expelled from the university for their connection with the journal, and advised them if they wanted their paper to appear as a university publication its manuscript would have to be submitted to censorship. Otherwise, he advised, they could print The Scorpion as an independent paper. Legislators, who Monday were threatening to call the dean of men and the president of the university before a joint meeting of the house were satisfied Tuesday with the stand taken by the authorities.

"I merely called the editors to my office to ascertain their plans and to apprise them of the regulations governing student publications," Dean Goodnight said. "If they wish to be accredited as a student publication they must submit their manuscript to faculty regulation and censorship. If not they may publish as an independent organ."

Sinclair said that he did not wish to submit manuscript to censorship by the university but that he wanted it to appear as a university publication. The editors are to advise the dean of their plans later in the week.

ZABEL AND THREE INDICTED BY JURY

Former District Attorney Of Milwaukee Is Accused Of Conspiracy

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—Winifred C. Zabel, former district attorney, late Monday was indicted by the county grand jury in a blanket indictment, naming, besides Mr. Zabel, Attorney Nebel and Arthur W. Richter. All gave bail of $1,000 each.

A fourth man was named but he had not been arrested the terms of the indictment were kept secret. However, from a statement of Mr. Zabel, it was learned that the four men were charged with conspiracy to accuse Arthur J. Baum, prominent club man of a serious crime in an attempt to extort from Baum $50,000.

The indictment grows out of an investigation made by Mr. Zabel while he was district attorney of the charge that Mr. Baum had assaulted Mrs. Jane Borstadt in her apartment on the night of Aug. 10, 1921, and the subsequent civil action commenced by Mrs. Borstadt against Baum.

Shea was trapped on the sixth floor. He jumped for the life net and missed.

Several firemen were hurt in their efforts to rescue the occupants of the building.

GRANT DISLOYAL TO CHURCH VOWS

The Rev. Paul Keicher Explains Eastern Man's Unusual Utterances

It is not Dr. Percy Stickney Grant's heresy that is at issue in the Episcopal church according to a sermon preached by Rev. Paul Keicher at All Saints church. The local Episcopal priest said the issue is a matter of morals and integrity with Dr. Grant who has solemnly pledged himself to preach the doctrines of his church. This present attitude is disloyalty to the things to which he has pledged himself.

Father Keicher, who knows Dr. Grant personally, says that his attitude is not new and that he has been disloyal in small things for many years. This is the third bishop who has had trouble with him, but the first to really bring the thing to a definite showdown. It is Father Keicher's opinion as expressed in his sermon that were Dr. Grant in the same position in the army or in the government, he would be considered a traitor.

Another point which Father Keicher brought out was that the church in which Dr. Grant is now preaching is large, wealthy and influential. [But] he made the same statements in some other church they would have passed unnoticed. He said that if Dr. Grant would resign from his pulpit and preach in a public hall or on a soap box, no one would raise a hand to stop him because that would be his right. As long as he remains in his pulpit, he is pledged to teach the doctrines of the church which he is supposed to be serving.

HOME RULE BILL IN SENATE TODAY

Assembly Scheduled To Act On Measure Asking Tax On Bank Dividends

Madison—Two important bills are in the senate and one in the assembly up for final vote by the Wisconsin legislature Wednesday. The home rule bill, introduced by Senator William F. Quirk, Milwaukee, was unanimously recommended for passage by the judiciary committee is listed on the calendar for senate action.

A bill taxing bank dividends by Assemblyman Henry Ott, Sheboygan, unanimously recommended for passage by the committee on taxation, is scheduled to appear for action by the assembly.

The home rule bill, an issue in Milwaukee for the past 20 years gives cities the power to determine their own affairs.

They would however remain under the taxation limit of 5 per cent and be subject to legislation of statewide concern as it uniformly affects cities or villages.

WANTS STATE OWNERSHIP OF POWER PLANTS

Bill Seeking Change In Economic Structure Of Wisconsin To Go To House

By Associated Press

Madison—Legislation that would revolutionize the entire economic structure of Wisconsin and the ultimate state ownership of privately owned and operated electric power companies in the state will be brought under a bill to be introduced in the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature Wednesday. The bill seeks the electrification of Wisconsin by the conservation and utilization of water sites to develop electric power. It was drafted by and will be introduced at the instance of Edwin J. Grosse, a Milwaukee attorney who is a member of the executive committee of the Public Ownership League of America. Mr. Grosse, a prominent LaFollette progressive, declared the bill had no political significance.

WOULD SEEK FUNDS
Wednesday's bill is expected to be a stepping stone to future legislation that will achieve the object of the state's electrification. It provides through some department of the state to make a survey of potential or undeveloped water power sites in Wisconsin and to prohibit the leasing or giving away of natural resources that may develop power. An application of approximately $50,000 will be asked to carry on the work.

"We are satisfied, from the surveys now available, sufficient power can be developed to more than pay the expense of the undertaking," Mr. Grosse said. "The perfect is so far reaching that it will penetrate every phase of life."

WANTS LOWER RATES
The present cost of electric power in the state ranges from five to ten cents per kilowatt hour but with Wisconsin's natural power sites controlled by the state these rates would be reduced to one cent or perhaps lower.

"This first bill will permit the survey and in the meantime campaign among civic and economic groups to aid in the problem will result in our being able to present to the next session of the legislature a practical and workable bill covering hydro-electric super power for Wisconsin," he said.

PLAN $2,000,000 CEMENT COMPANY

Plants Will Be Erected In Manitowoc And Milwaukee

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—Backed by $2,000,000 of Wisconsin capital, a huge cement plant capable of supplying the entire needs of the state will be erected at Manitowoc and a second plant at Milwaukee, if plans now under consideration are completed here.

According to contractors in the state the cement shortage, due to lack of rail transportation caused huge losses yearly to the state and contractors. Possible adverse tax legislation by the Wisconsin legislature it is said, has prevented the more immediate organization of the proposed company.

The plans contemplate a barge line to carry crushed stone from the lime deposits of Petoskey, Mich. to Manitowoc or Milwaukee. The stone would be converted into cement by the wet process, which is quicker.

The first plant, insofar as at present determined upon, will be built on the docks of the Reiss Coal Co. at Manitowoc. Among those who have participated in recent discussions are Peter Reiss, Sheboygan; Walter Oedein, Milwaukee; J. B. Larrimer, Green Bay; officers of the Manitowoc Shipbuilding company, and others.

LAABS DENIES BRIDGE MATTER IS 'SETTLED'

Third Ward Alderman Says Council Has Not Taken "Official Action"

Alderman A. W. Laabs, in a statement prepared for The Post-Crescent, entitled: "Bridge Matter Has Not Officially Settled," expressed the belief that the administration's program for building bridges at Cherry-st. and at Lawest will be carried out in spite of the article printed on Saturday in which it was stated that four aldermen have said they would no longer continue to support the plan to build a bridge at Cherry-st. Mr. Laabs said the Post-Crescent had no authority to say that prospect of a bridge at Cherry street this year have gone glimmering because the council has not taken official action on the matter.

Mr. Laabs, in his statement, suggests that the difference between the sum now on hand for bridge purposes and the money that will be required to pay for the bridges can be taken out of the general fund and the council can borrow money to operate the city the remainder of the year. The alderman also says that the need for a bridge is here and asks if it were not better to build the bridges in 1923 and have the use of them rather than wait until 1924.

His communication to The Post-Crescent follows: "This article is prepared for the purpose of offsetting the statement made by The Post-Crescent giving the impression that the bridge matter was settled, and that no bridge would be built at Cherry street this year. They had no authority to say this, as the council has not taken official action on this matter, and I believe when the matter is taken up officially that all the members of the council who were agreeable to the procedure as far as they have gone will be agreeable to carry it through. The council has worked on the bridge matter for four years, and came to the conclusion to have plans drawn for bridges at Lawest and Cherry streets. These plans cost 3 per cent of the contract price, or $625,000 for the Cherry street plan and approximately $1800.00 for the Lawest street plan.

"Each alderman knew what it meant to vote for these plans, and I think were sincere that the bridges were to be built, unless the contract price was beyond reach. When the plans were received and presented for adoption it was explained to the council by the engineer who drew the plans and specifications that the estimated cost of the Cherry street bridge should be approximately $200,000.00 and the cost of the Lawest street bridge approximately $62,000.00. The council then ordered that bids be called for, which was done. The low bid received for Cherry street bridge is approximately $207,000, and for Lawest street bridge, $58,000, total $265,000, or $2,000 higher than the estimates on the basis of which the majority of the council voted to advertise for bids.

"There is the bridge fund at present, $175,000. It requires $265,000 to be set aside into a bridge fund before contracts can be let, or $90,000 more than what is already provided. This $90,000 can be taken from the general fund and placed into the bridge fund at the time contracts are let and the entire amount will draw 3 per cent interest until paid out. If the general fund is thereby depleted before the tax collection of 1924, the city can borrow enough to run until the taxes are collected in 1924 and repay it then.

"If the building of bridges is deferred until some time in the future it will be necessary to put $75,000 in the tax levy of 1924 just the same to provide funds when needed. Why not put the money to work in 1923 and get the use of the bridges? The money will have to be raised just the same whether the bridges are built this year, or not, as the necessity for bridges is here, and there is nothing to be gained by deferring the matter. Any other public improvement necessary at this time will have to be done and paid for regardless of the bridge matter, and should not be charged to the bridges. They will have to be met whether bridges are built or not. The filling in of approaches at both ends of both bridges and the opening and paving of the street at the south end of Cherry street bridge is chargeable and should be charged to the bridges. The cost of this work is estimated by the city engineer at about $30,000. This work will not be complete until 1924, and this extra work will have to be done and paid for in 1924, and if not provided for in 1924 taxes, can be taken care of in the 1925 taxes. I don't think that any tax payer expects to build the bridges without paying for them now or at any future time.

"To sum up the whole situation: First, The necessity for bridges is here. A large number of voters (over 1500) have petitioned the council to proceed with the bridge matter. Second, The council has already obligated itself for a considerable sum in its procedure up to this time (about $8,000) which will be lost if action is deferred.

"Third, The finances of the city never were and never will be in any better condition than they are at the present time to undertake this work."

FORD CAR NO 200782 FATED.

The driver of the Ford car No. 200782 seemed destined for a mishap last Saturday afternoon at about 1 o'clock. He was driving east on College-ave and in order to avoid a collision at State and College-ave, with a car coming from the north, he had to apply the brakes very suddenly. There was an awful grating noise and at the same time the Ford swung almost completely around on the slippery street. Turning his car east on one street, he drove just one block when more the same thing happened again. A car coming from the south at quite a fast rate met him at College-ave and Walnut-st. Both cars came to a sudden stop and the Ford swung round again. It must have given the occupants quite a fright for just as I passed the car, which was now standing in front of the Glendamm-Gage store, I heard one of them say "I don't think I want another ride this winter." ## COUNTRY ROADS IN WORST SHAPE OF WHOLE WINTER

Snow Plows Able To Do Little As Drifts Continue To Block Roads

"How are the roads?" "Roads? Roads? There are no roads to speak of." That is the substance of the conversation now usually carried on between country and intercity travelers these days.

What the snowstorm and subsequent drifts failed to do, was accomplished by Monday's blizzard. It was the severest storm of the winter, as far as blocking of country traffic is concerned, and Lincoln's birthday will be remembered in this light after the fashion that Washington's birthday was last year, following the sleet storm.

The county snow plows could make but little progress against the constantly shifting drifts that piled-up four and five feet deep on many roads. Even the giant snow plow and tractor's work was partially spoiled by the drifts that followed in its trail. Bus traffic on the Black Creek-Seymour line has not yet been restored. Although interurban cars and busses between Neenah and Kaukauna are running, a number of them were off their schedule Monday evening.

Travel by horse-drawn vehicles, especially on the side roads, was impeded. Mail carriers were forced in some instances to detour over fields to avoid impossible drifts. Horses traveled almost incessantly knee deep and very often sunk down as far as their hips.

LUMBERING AND BUILDING GIVING WORK TO NUMBERS

State Labor Survey Shows Pa-per Industry Employing More Men

Washington—Industrial unemployment conditions continue good in Wisconsin, Secretary of Labor Davis reported in his monthly summary of labor conditions throughout the country.

Lumber countries in the northern part of the state are still experiencing difficulties in recruiting their crews to full strength notwithstanding the fact that highest wages in the history of the industry are being paid. All building material plants are working at capacity. The mild weather has given new impetus to the building industry and there is a revival of activities in outside construction work. Employment showed an increase in the paper industry. The railroad car shortage is gradually being relieved.

The report by cities follows: Milwaukee district—Slight falling off in building activities. Shortage of skilled mechanics. Increased employment in textiles, leather and shoes, food products, chemicals and allied products and in the lumber and steel industry. Knitting mills working overtime. Increased activities in the automotive, iron and steel and heavy machinery industries.

Racine—Employment conditions are good. Surplus of sheet metal workers. One motor company closed and one plow works very near closed. Local traction plants have little or no business. Majority of plants operating from 50 to 75 per cent of normal. Plants manufacturing electric specialties and clothes operating overtime.

Kenosha—Industries are increasing forces of operatives. All plants operating. Housing shortage continues.

Oshkosh—Very little unemployment. A fire in one of the wood working plants has thrown 185 men out of employment temporarily. No unemployment in the building industry. Wisconsin—General outlook encouraging. With exception of surplus of day labor, supply equals demand. Building operations have been discontinued until spring. Housing conditions fairly satisfactory at present.

Ashland—No unemployment. All plants operating full time. Abatement in building industry is noticeable. Housing facilities are adequate. Superior—Employment conditions give every indication of steady improvement. All plants are operating full time. Additional employment in railroad circles. Surplus of workers in some of the trades. A $275,000 ore dock is under construction and will employ approximately 250 men.

Green Bay—All plants operating but nearly all with reduced forces. There is a constant surplus of factory help and, with seasonal work at a standstill. There is a surplus of workers in practically all lines with the exception of the lumbering industry. A new bridge and a new hotel are under construction.

Rhineland—No involuntary unemployment. Increased activity in logging industry with a shortage of timber workers. Construction work at a standstill.

Fond du Lac—Employment conditions are fair. Railroad shops are operating 70 per cent of normal. Building continues at a rapid pace. A housing shortage exists.

Madison—Work will soon start on two hotels which will offer employment to many hundred men. The ice harvest is in full swing employing many men. A surplus of clerical help exists. All plants are operating, one battery company operating overtime.

Shelbyville—Surplus of common labor and of foundry workers but a slight shortage of skilled labor in furniture factories. Very little construction work.

Eau Claire—Labor conditions normal with heavy demand, however, for labor in the woods. All industries running full blast.

Tuesday And Friday Are "Wash Day" At Postoffice

Uncle Sam's postal clerks play a big part each week in supplying Lawrence students with a fresh assortment of "undies," for the mother back home is the recipient of a weekly laundry box. The majority of the students send their washing home for it costs only a few cents transportation each way. One student says, "It not only saves money but mother knows how to do the clothes up right." Another solution might be that the laundry comes back with some much appreciated "eats."

Most of the laundry boxes leaving Appleton are sent on Friday of each week, making a laundry day at the postoffice. The same boxes usually return on Tuesday so the delivery car finds it a heavy day. Although the boxes are coming and going all the time the clerks plan on the two days for their heavy laundry mail. The white canvas box is the popular one among the students as it is light and durable. Leather cases are used but not to any great extent. The old-fashioned straw cases which were in two sections, fitted together and bound with straps are rarely seen any more. The average weight of the boxes is about ten pounds when filled, so, as one clerk at the postoffice states, everyone must be wearing about the same weight clothing. A few of the men and women working in Appleton but who are away from home send their laundry back to be washed, but these there are few to the number of students who practice this.

CARROLL ASSURED $100,000 'GYM'

When Lawrence college meets Carroll college of Waukesha in basketball next year it will be in Carroll's new $100,000 gymnasium. A special meeting of the board of trustees last week disclosed that the college is practically assured of a new gymnasium building to be ready for occupancy by Oct. 1.

It is announced that one-half of the cost will be defrayed by a friend, who does not wish his name made public. The building will be one of the most modern of its kind in the state and will contain, in addition to playing floor, dressing and shower rooms, a large swimming pool, club, pool and billiard rooms, a kitchenette and a coach's office.

MUST LICENSE PEDDLER HAVING STATE PERMIT

After peddlers have complied with the state law by securing state licenses, city councils or village boards cannot refuse to grant a local license to them. Assistant Attorney General F. E. Bump declared in an opinion. The opinion held also that a transient merchant cannot sell his merchandise and act as an auctioneer without having secured an auctioneer's license.

INSPECT GUARD HERE ON MARCH 17

Annual inspection of the Wisconsin National guard will be made by 18 regular army officers, detailed to visit Wisconsin units during March. Col. Byron Beveridge, formerly of Appleton and now inspector general of the state guard, announced Monday. Major Albert Tucker will conduct the inspection of Co. D, 127th Infantry, Appleton, on March 17 and 18. He will be at Neenah March 20 to 23 and at Menasha-March 26 and 27. The order of inspection was signed by Adjutant General Holway as his last official act.

"Y" MEN IN PULPIT OF GREEN BAY CHURCH

Twenty-two members of the Hi-Y club visited Green Bay Sunday evening and took charge of the Christian Endeavor services at the Presbyterian church. They took with them a double quartet and symphony orchestra and also furnished a portion of the music for the evening service which was conducted by the Y. M. C. A. gospel team of Appleton.

The singing at the latter service was led by W. S. Ford. The speakers were J. E. Bond, Alden Behrke and W. E. Smith. The trip was of especial interest to George P. Weiner, a member of the gospel team who also took part in the services, as it was the twenty-seventh anniversary of a similar trip he made to Green Bay. At that time he was a member of the boys' division of the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. and the delegation was headed by Fred B. Smith, who has since become nationally known in Y. M. C. A. circles.

POSTPONE MEETING OF CEMETERY ASSOCIATION

The meeting of Appleton Cemetery association which was to have been held last week to consider matters pertaining to the proposed additions to the main building at Riverside cemetery was postponed until a later date because of the absence from the city of one of the officers. It is possible it will not be called until the latter part of the month.

MR. HARDING AND A SECOND TERM

The question as to whether Mr. Harding will be a candidate for reelection is receiving general attention. During the last few weeks there has been a deal of speculation on the subject by the press of the country, particularly that portion favorable to his election to a second term. We think it should be said in justice to President Harding that there is no evidence that the discussion has been inspired by the White house. Although it is natural that with the nominating convention only a little more than a year off the president should be giving consideration to his relation to the campaign of 1924, there is nothing to show that he is playing politics or is subordinating his policies to thoughts of a second term.

At the time of his election it was generally understood that Mr. Harding had no concern about reelection, in fact it was stated on his behalf that he had no intention of seeking a second term. This was not official but it was intended to reflect his attitude. It would be surprising, however, if the president did not desire reelection. He has not realized the policies of his administration in either the legislative or administrative field and there is every indication that the present session will close with the record only partially complete. Senator Watson of Indiana, who has been prominently mentioned as a possible candidate, has stated that it is "not possible for the party to nominate somebody else than the president, and then appeal for support on the record of the administration, of which the president is the head." We think he is entirely right. The Republican party must stand by Mr. Harding or confess the failure of his administration.

There will be opposition to the president in the national convention by that element of the party led by Mr. La Follette. Possibly, too, Hiram Johnson and some of the more irreconcilable of the irremediabiles may kick up a little dust, but it will not amount to much. Mr. La Follette can aggregate to himself only a small amount of strength and Mr. Johnson is in the same position. Mr. Harding can undoubtedly have the nomination without substantial opposition. There can therefore be little question that Mr. Harding will be renominated for a second term, and that at the proper time he will indicate his willingness to accept this honor.

Whether he can be reelected is something that no one can say, except as partisan prejudice might suggest. We think if the election were held today Mr. Harding would be successful, although there is no denying the fact that his administration has suffered heavily in popularity. If he can pick himself up in his foreign policy during the next year and a half, he will recover much of the ground he has lost. The country's recovery of prosperity is orderly and progressive, and in spite of some unwise legislation, including even the ship subsidy bill, should it pass, this will help to improve his standing. It is too early yet to make predictions about 1924, so much may happen, is likely to happen, in the interim that may make or unmake the fortunes of either party.

KEMALISTS OVERPLAYING THEIR HAND

Mustapha Kemal Pasha is in a situation similar to that in which other statesmen are entangled, and, like other statesmen, he is afraid of the sentiment which he fostered. As others do, he poses as a leader, but in fact a leader who follows the dictates of a civic organization.

Kemal and his followers see that Great Britain does not want war, and that the British colonies are opposed to military conflict. They see that France is virtually at war and is in economic distress.

They think they see new revolution fermenting in Italy. Russia they know is decaying within and through pretending to be martial faces territorial disintegration. They see that all of Europe quails at the idea of a great disturbance.

But the combination between Great Britain and Italy is not impossible, not improbable, to hold New Turkey in check. Moreover, all commercial nations are interested directly in some of the issues concerning which Ankara is obstinate, so that the Kemalists if they are not careful may find themselves in a fine stew. Looking into the political state of Turkey it is plain that the Kemalists leaders are being pushed on by the movement which they started. The rank and file are more zealous than the captains, and cannot be stopped.

The ultimatums delivered to the powers demanding the removal of war ships from Smyrna are foolishly provocative. Turkey knows, or ought to know, that Great Britain is not going to be outdone by a sixth rate nation. Much as Great Britain may desire to escape war, and as all Europe fears its outbreak, there are bounds beyond which Turkey cannot be allowed to go. The Kemalists are rapidly approaching the boundary, and over the line there is a precipice.

NICARAGUA VS. ST. LAWRENCE

Reports from Washington are to the effect that the federal government cherishes an idea to build another isthmian canal to supplement the Panama waterway. This time by the Nicaragua route. During the last few years traffic over the Panama canal has materially increased, and the prospect is that within a reasonable time its capacity will be taxed by commerce flowing between the Pacific and Atlantic oceans. The idea of a second canal is therefore not merely a dream. It is a practical project founded on coming necessity. Ultimately there is no doubt it will be authorized and constructed.

However, the question of waterway development in or by this country is one of relative values and requirements. It should take place systematically and consistently. We think it is premature to talk of another "Panama canal" so long as the St. Lawrence waterway project remains unacted upon. This undertaking is of vastly greater importance to the United States than the construction of a second isthmian canal. Its relation to our national economy and prosperity is of more immediate and direct consequence than any other proposal in the field of transportation before the country. It will enhance American commerce, contribute to American agriculture and industry and will promote general advancement in a much greater degree than by adding another communication between the Atlantic and Pacific or by carrying out any other scheme to enlarge water transportation.

The St. Lawrence seaway is the most important economic project before the United States today, and it will remain so until it is authorized and its construction is under way. Long before we think seriously of a Nicaragua canal we should go ahead with this great domestic enterprise.

TODAY'S POEM

By Berton Bralley

LET GEORGE DO IT

Let George do it. You've heard the phrase
Twisted around in a thousand ways.
Meaning, "The job is not for me,
I haven't time, or I cannot see
The sense or reason in what you plan."
So let George do it, for he's your man!
And George does it—he doesn't stall
Or shrink and cower in a corner wall.
You can rely
On George, that guy
Is there to do it—and do it all!

And who is George? He's the goof abard,
The easy mark and the patient bird,
Who thinks that duty is not a whim,
But something worthy of strength and vim!
And the wisest helmsman, too wise to dudge,
Say "Let George do it"—and never budge.
And George does it. He doesn't say,
Oh, I'm too busy to work today!
Believe me, bo,
Old George will go
And do that job in the proper way.

Yes George does it, the poor old dunc,
Till the wise boys find out all at once,
That George, the willing and eager chump,
Is giving the orders around the dump.
Let George do it, was what they said,
And George did it and forged ahead!
Let George do it—but say, old scout,
Don't be too cocky when he's about,
But use your knob
Upon the job.
Or George will do it—and throw you out!

THE TORONTO WAY

Dr. Charles J. Hastings, medical officer of health, Toronto, Canada, recently published in the Toronto health bulletin some of the most sensible rules I have ever seen published by any health authority, for preventing the respiratory infections wrongly known as "colds." The Toronto rules are so good that I print them here. Laymen will find these rules worthy of careful study and some politicians holding jobs as health commissioners may glean a little knowledge from a careful perusal of the Toronto way.

Don't sit or work in an overheated room. Sixty-five to 68 degrees is quite warm enough; 60 to 65 degrees if you are engaged in any active work. Insist on a slight current in the air of the room you occupy and also a proper degree of humidity.

Don't use sprays or douches for your nose unless under doctor's orders and instructions. Much more harm than good comes from the use of sprays. In the first place, if a spray is strong enough to destroy the germs, it is more likely to produce irritation of the mucous membrane, which will lower rather than build up the resisting powers and consequently make it all the more susceptible to germ attack.

Don't sneeze or cough except into a handkerchief or a piece of cheesecloth and keep well beyond the range of any one else who is coughing or sneezing.

Don't allow any member of the family who has an acute cold to come in contact with other members of the household, nor to use the same eating or drinking utensils, etc. Have everything sterilized that is used by one who has contracted a cold, as you would if they had scarlet fever or diphtheria.

Don't go to any public meetings if you have a cold. You had better stay at home until it is better. You will save time by doing so and probably save others from contracting your cold.

Don't stand close to any one with whom you are conversing if you are reckless enough to go about when you have a cold and do not under any circumstances shake hands with any one while you have an acute cold. Remember, through the frequent use of your handkerchief, your hands are always contaminated with the germs of the disease. Have you ever catechized your hands and fingers with regard to everything they have been in contact with in the previous 24 hours? One of the surgeons in a military camp during the war, kept a careful record of the number of possibilities of contaminating his hands in one day; it amounted approximately to 120.

Don't under any consideration touch any article of food, whether for yourself or for any one else, unless you have previously thoroughly cleansed your hands. "Have you Washed Your Hands?" would be a valuable motto to be placed in every dining room. "Hundreds of lives could be saved and thousands of cases of sickness prevented if people were as much afraid of colds as they are of smallpox or a mad dog."

I would add only a word or two in explanation to the lay reader. The "proper degree of humidity" will be readily maintained in the room if the temperature is permitted to rise above 68 degrees F., at any time, by keeping an open vessel of water on stove, register or radiator. If the temperature rises above 68 degrees F. it is almost impossible to maintain sufficient humidity by any means.

H. Baker passed the examination of the state board of pharmacy at Milwaukee. The ceremony was performed by Father Ignatius and the couple was attended by Miss Lizzie Stengel and Louis Keller.

The Northeastern Teachers association was to hold its seventh annual meeting in Appleton March 31 and April 1. Lincoln Carter's new play, "The Heart of Chicago," was presented at the opera house the previous evening.

TEN YEARS AGO

Cleveland Mayor Keeps City Within Its Income

Cleveland—Inhabitants of Cleveland, the nation's fifth largest city, face a serious threat.

It's the threat that the city again this year will live within its income, a feat it accomplished last year despite politicians, city council and administration obstructions.

Behind that threat is Mayor Fred Kohler.

"It's a threat, not a promise," says Kohler. "We don't promise. Politicians promise."

Then Kohler, a humorous giant, in his eyes, told how he had made the city a financial success—told how any city can do the same thing.

He told how he had taken office early in 1921 with the city $800,000 in debt. And how he reported on New Year's Day this year the city's books showed a surplus of $558,000.

PAYROLL CUT FIRST

"We began by trimming the payroll," Kohler explained. "That was our biggest saving. But we made almost as large a saving in eliminating waste in stock and supplies."

"We've cut down pretty near the bone but we can cut even more and we will."

"It takes nerve. We've found it hard with both political organizations against us. We've been hardly on speaking terms with the council."

"That's because we've fired their poor relations. And every time we took someone off the payroll and didn't replace him, we found we got better service out of the rest."

"There used to be so many men on garbage collection duty there was only room for half of them to work at a time and scarcely any room for garbage on the wagons."

HOW HE LOOKS

This exaggeration is typical of Kohler. He is energy and action throughout. More than six feet tall and proportionately built, he shows fight in his make-up.

He has a high, well-knit brow, firmly set jaw, rather deep-set piercing eyes and thin lips that give a hint of a humorous, likable smile.

"You know," he comments, "many people think a city ought to have a good business man for mayor. But it's not so much his business qualifications that make him a good city executive as his knowledge of his people."

"And in whatever you do, if you want to do it right, you can't let anyone dictate to you. And I don't."

This year is Kohler's last as mayor. Then a change in Cleveland's government will place a city manager at its head. But Kohler denies his efficiency is a bid for this new job. He's through, he says.

"But while I'm mayor, we're going to keep on living within our income," he repeats. "This year our income will be $300,000 less because of tax reduction. But that doesn't bother me."

"We've an extensive street repaving program before us. We'll open up a new hospital and we've other big things to do. But we won't issue bonds."

Farmer Cheers For Volstead; Fills Coal Bin

(From the New York Herald.)

There is a farmer in Pennsylvania who will never want for the necessities of life as long as his brains function. His farm lies on a windswept hillside along the Pennsylvania railroad somewhere between Harrisburg and Baltimore. The federal fuel administrator's office in Washington vouches for this story and adds that the name of the farmer and where he lives are not made public for his own good. A man with ideas like his should be protected, they say.

This farmer needed coal. He tried unsuccessfully to buy a few tons. One evening while he sat in his favorite chair, slowly freezing to death, the idea struck him. He lighted a lantern and took to the barn.

A couple of hours later he was nailing something to the fence that separates his land from that of the Pennsylvania railroad. He returned to his house glowing with warmth and hope. He bade his wife and children to aid him with prayer.

And at dawn when the first coal train passed, the train crew beheld a huge sign nailed to the fence. In large block letters the sign proclaimed: "HURRAY FOR VOLSTEAD!"

"The hell you say!" jeered the crew through blue lips. And they hurried along, muttering and shaking their heads. From car after car came the barrage as the outraged trainmen read the legend. And succeeding coal trains have continued the fire.

But the sign was stout and the letters were large. Thus far that Pennsylvania farmer with brains has gathered eight tons of coal and the sign is still there.

Pork Barrel Puts Palace In Hamlet

(Byron E. Newton, in Collier's.)

For nearly a generation prior to 1913 congress passed every two years an omnibus public building bill, otherwise known as the pork barrel. This was one of the big factors in the strictly political program at Washington, and hundreds of millions of dollars had been squandered in buying sites and erecting unnecessary federal buildings in remote localities.

The matter had become a national scandal, because, with this program of scattering marble palaces among the hamlets and villages in full blast, federal buildings in large cities had been outgrown. The government was paying very large sums there as annual rentals for space in outside buildings, while most of the aforesaid rural marble palaces were only partly occupied.

For a small town in Mississippi or Minnesota of, say, 5,000 inhabitants, congress would appropriate $20,000 for a postoffice site, and in the next omnibus bill two years later $100,000 for a building. Here would be a total of $120,000 for a postoffice in a village where the annual postal receipts would not be more than $2,000 or $2500, and where satisfactory service was being given in quarters rented for $50 to $250 a year.

After spending this $120,000 the government had to assume maintenance of that building—janitor service, light, heat, etc.—at a cost of about $6,000 per annum, and all this for a yearly income of $2,000 or $2500. Meanwhile, in nearly all cities of

HOW TO KEEP THE EYES BRIGHT

The eyes deserve a great deal of attention because they are expressive of your individuality.

So you should keep your eyes bright, vivacious, sparkling and full of life.

To do this, of course, you must have good health.

Any stomach or liver disorder will affect the brightness of the eyes.

Much depends upon the condition of the mouth, for many stomach disorders have been caused by improper mastication of food and care of the mouth.

Of course we cleanse our teeth night and morning and visit our dentist at least twice a year, but many of us neglect to cleanse our tongues.

To clean the tongue daily is as important to the health as any other act of the toilet.

It is most necessary to scrape the tongue twice daily or to take a piece of white velvet and rub it over the tongue before retiring and immediately upon arising. Use a good mouth wash afterward.

Puffs around the eyes are usually caused from some kidney condition, and one should see her physician concerning any such condition.

You can keep your eyes bright by bathing them in the morning with a solution of boracic acid and warm water, putting this in an eye cup and rolling the eyes as you bathe them.

This exercises the eyes and, when they are tired, relieves the strain.

It is also a good thing to apply warm cloths over the eyes when they feel tired, lying down while you have the cloths on.

PAGEANT SHOWS VALUE OF CHURCH

More than 100 persons attended the pageant "Response of Youth" given Sunday evening in the Presbyterian church by the Christian Endeavor society. The pageant was under direction of Mrs. Frank Schneider and was a window of Christian Endeavor week.

The characters of the play were symbolical of various phases of church life and the general plot was to show by illustrations how the church has responded to the needs of youth, and what fields of work have been opened to girls and boys. The choir assisted with musical numbers and Mrs. Marie Boehm sang a solo.

At the close of the pageant the Rev. Mr. Wright gave a short talk in which he told of the importance of young people's work in the church. He also pointed out the ways in which the church has helped to develop the possibilities of its younger members.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS

"California Fig Syrup" is Child's Best Laxative

Hurry! Mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will thoroughly clean the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love its "fruity" taste, and mothers can rest easy because it never fails to work all the souring food and nasty bile right out of the stomach and bowels without griping or upsetting the child.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation. adv.

MAN IN HIS FULL STATURE NEEDS GOD'S CONTACT

Stirring Address Is Delivered At Men's Club By Bishop Weller

In summing up his address on "The True Measurements of a Man," before the Men's club of All Saints church Monday evening, the Rt. Rev. R. H. Weller, bishop of Fond du Lac Episcopal diocese, said the real thing humanity needs today is religion, daily contact with God, and the consciousness of His being.

"Possessing these your life will have its three greatest dimensions complete, and then the length of it will never be selfish, and the width of it will never be flat and you will have the true measure of a man," he declared.

The meeting was attended by more than 100 members of the club. The supper was served by the ladies of St. Agnes Guild and H. A. Babcock, president of the club, acted as toastmaster. The singing was led by Vance Edwards and Mrs. Fairwell and Mrs. Dorothy Brigham Pierce presided at the piano. A vocal solo was rendered by William Harwood.

BE CAREFUL

"For God's sake be careful," said Bishop Weller, "when you count God out in life. And that is worthy of consideration right now. We are living in the greatest epoch in the history of humanity. It is not only great in its splendid business, it is great in its dangers."

"You read a great deal in the papers about Bolshevism in Russia. That doesn't distress as much as the amount of it in America today. I mean Bolshevism, the contempt for law, for society as we have inherited it and as it has made us. I think if we men paid our debt to society, this government has the right of any man's life for public good any time."

"Here is what I want you to see, that the height of a man's life is its supreme joy. It is the finding of God and the living in union. Here are these electric lights! Where do they come from? Someone says from the dynamo. The dynamo in life that is worth while is God. If you have not the connection the power is not here, and the christian religion was put in this world in order that we might come in contact with God."

NEED FATHERHOOD

"A good deal is said in our day about brotherhood. It is a fine thing, but it doesn't exist. There is no such thing as brotherhood; that is, it is no literal contact. There is no such thing as brotherhood without fatherhood. There can be no such thing as brotherhood of men without the consciousness of the Great Father whom we call God out of whom we came."

"I want to dwell a little on that because we all need that consciousness and very much more than we have it. Without a life is chaos. Without it I defy any child to tell why he should be honest. Without it I defy any man or woman to give a reason for being clean."

"Every true man has something he wants. The only question is whether he wants it bad enough to get it or die in the attempt to get it. We see something in the distance and we want it. It is the kind of a man I want to be. It is the kind of a life I want to live. It is the kind of a thing I want to have. And if he really wants it he gets it. It is the hope that beckons him on."

HOPE MEANS MUCH

"One of the most attractive things about religion is the hope it puts in the hearts of men and women, and there is nothing on this side of the grave that is as fine as hope. You don't get out of memory what you get out of hope. You don't get out of anything you have done what you get out of hope. Hope keeps us moving."

"Now, every man has something of it in him, some future desire which pushes everything aside and he tells and struggles for it determined to accomplish it in the end. For what I have been able to accomplish in the world I am indebted to that hope.

"We in the priesthood talk constantly about vocation. I don't mean to belittle my vocation, but I pity the man who has no sense of vocation; has no consciousness down in him that he was made for a purpose; that he has faculties, powers, energies and opportunities to fix his life along straight lines. Don't let anyone drive them out. He will win out."

CAN REACH AMBITION

"I don't care what you may be, a priest, physician, or lawyer, a manufacturer or commercial man; I don't care what the thing is that you want to be, to do, to accomplish,—do it. You can."

"I would like to emphasize that. I don't think it is a mere theory. To me it is one of the finest things in life, that consciousness and the hope he craves. Every man of you can reach the goal in the end if you want to badly."

"But on it depends everything worth while in life. If you fail, O, well, you know what becomes of the worm eaten apples on the ground. Do you know what becomes of all the failures in the world? You can't think about that unless it is with dread. So we all love a successful man."

Well, my friends, I am not one of the men to condemn the getting of money. If my life didn't lie in the line it does it would run that way because there is power, everybody knows it, in wealth. It has great power and tremendous responsibilities. It has a care and remember it depends upon what you want the money for."

At the conclusion of his address, Bishop Weller was made an honorary member of the club by a unanimous vote.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulshied coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulshied at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulshied in a cup or glass with a little warm water is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily.

It is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulshied.

FARMERS RECEIVE $1.59-A-TON BONUS ON 1922 BEET CROP

Contracts For Doubled Acreage Being Closed At $6.50 And Bonus

Special to Post-Crescent
Greenville—Farmers who raised sugar beets last summer for Green Bay Sugar company, Green Bay, are receiving bonus checks of $1.59 a ton on last year's production. This is more than the farmers expected. The bonus rate is based on the average wholesale sugar price of the New York market for six months. Contracts for 1922 guaranteed farmers $8 a ton and a bonus of one dollar above the average sugar price for six months. Joseph Basik, the company's field representative, is busy among the farmers signing up contracts for the coming season. He has instructions to double the acreage of last year in the Green Bay territory. The 1923 agreement specifies a guaranteed price of $6.50 plus a bonus. This price is 50 cents more than last year, but the price of labor for beet weeding has been raised from $18 to $23 an acre. The Green Bay company has an automatic loading dump here. Its use is appreciated by the farmers who formerly had to load beets into a high railroad car with a fork, and often had to wait for a long period to get to the car. Now the load is weighed and the farmer then drives his wagon onto the concrete approach to the dump. The horses are unhitched and the end board removed from the wagon. The vehicle then is raised at the front end so the beets roll into the dump. From here they are drawn up to the level of the car and loaded over a screen.

Avoid Influenza—Grip—Pneumonia

How To Apply Vicks To Help Avoid These Infections
How To Use Vicks In Case You Are Attacked

DEEP, grippy colds—frequently leading into pneumonia—have been unusually prevalent this winter. Some authorities insist that they are a form of influenza, not so virulent as the influenza during the first epidemic, though they are worse than ordinary colds.

Vicks As a Preventive
Most medical authorities now agree, that these troubles are germ diseases—commonly spread by breathing in the germs. If the system is in good shape—the membrane of the air passages in a healthy condition—these germs do not ordinarily breed.

Keep a little Vicks rubbed up the nostrils at all times, particularly when exposed to crowds. At night melt Vicks in a spoon and inhale the vapors, or better still, use Vicks in a teakettle as directed below. This treatment helps to keep the air passages in good condition.

The Danger Is From Pneumonia
The chief danger lies in the development of pneumonia. What is needed therefore is something to decrease the congestion of the lungs. For this purpose there is nothing like a rubefacient, or counter-irritant, as witness the use of blisters, poultices and plasters for many generations. This irritation reddens the skin—draws the blood from the congested parts to the surface; the circulation is improved; there is a sensation of warmth and the possibility of pneumonia is greatly lessened.

A "Quick" Rubefacient Needed
The value of this counter-irritant effect is greatly increased if it is produced quickly. Nearly every family has its favorite method on poultices, turpentine stipes, mustard plasters and poultices of various kinds—all are good.

A very simple method is to apply towels wrung out in hot water, as hot as the patient can stand. This not only reddens the skin quickly, but also opens the pores so that more Vicks can be absorbed. Some, however, prefer to use an ordinary mustard plaster, as the reddening effect lasts longer.

Get Skin Thoroughly Red
Whatever method is used, the application should be applied over the throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. In very deep colds, the sides and especially the back from the middle of the shoulder blades to a point just above the waist, should also be treated.

The patient should be given a good purgative and, if convenient, a hot mustard foot-bath for ten minutes—one tablespoon of mustard to a gallon of water.

Then Massage With Vicks
After the skin is thoroughly reddened, it should be dried lightly and immediately the patient should be given a brisk massage with Vicks all over the parts. Continue this for five minutes. This increases the counter-irritant effect. Then apply Vicks thickly over all the parts; that is, spread it on as you would a poultice—about one-sixteenth of an inch thick or more—and cover with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths.

Vicks' Double Action
Thus applied Vicks has a double action. First, Vicks is so made that the body heat gradually releases the ingredients in the form of vapors. The more Vicks applied, the stronger will be the vapors and the longer these vapors will last. The night clothing should always be loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel. These vapors being lighter than air, rise up from the chest and, if the bed clothing is properly arranged, pass by the nose and mouth and are thus inhaled with each breath, carrying the medication directly through the air passages of the lungs.

The second action of Vicks is external—by absorption thru and stimulation of the skin.

Repeat Treatment
When the vapors begin to lose their strength, fresh Vicks should be applied over the throat and chest. This to keep up the continuous supply of vapors. When the redness of the skin dies out, all the Vicks remaining should be wiped off and the entire treatment repeated. That is, the hot wet towels or mustard plasters should be used until the skin is again thoroughly reddened, then massage with Vicks, spread on thickly and cover with hot flannels just as previously done.

Steam and Vapor Method
Sometimes when the patient is badly choked up, the vapors from the application on the chest are not sufficient to make the breathing easier. In these cases drop a tablespoonful of Vicks into a kettle of boiling water and allow the patient to inhale the warm steam and vapors combined for about 10 minutes. Do this several times a day if needed. Keep the water boiling and put in additional Vicks whenever the vapors decrease. Put a sheet over the patient and the tea-kettle, making a kind of a tent. Take no chances with these grippy colds. Remember, Vicks must be used freely to be effective—and always call a doctor.

BUSINESS GAINS AS CONFIDENCE IS STRENGTHENED

Firm Outlook Of Last Few Weeks Is Unshaken, Bankers Indicate

Confidence prevails in business circles and there is no modification of the opinion of business experts during the last few weeks of a splendid outlook for the year 1923. This is the tone of the summary of business conditions for the last week prepared by James B. Clews, of the banking house of Henry Clews and company, New York.

He outlines the situation as follows: "Broadly speaking, the stock market during the past week. The improvement is to be attributed directly to the evidently better prospects for domestic business in spite of the continuance of depressed conditions in other countries. Investment of capital at home continues active, and local trade is apparently disposed to press forward to fill still higher levels than heretofore."

GOOD QUOTATIONS

The direct relationship between good business and quotations of shares has been illustrated by several factors during the past few days. The equipment stocks have resumed their upward movement consequent upon announcement that orders for 163 locomotives have been received in January by the American Locomotive Company, while other equipments were equally active in their volume of advance bookings. Oil shares have also shown some renewal of buoyancy consequent upon larger demand and better prices for fuel oil while a working off of sugar supplies and rather better prospects in the Cuban situation have tended to strengthen sugar prices. Heavy demand all over the country for goods has made the distributing stocks buoyant because of the belief that the large turnover which they are now enjoying can hardly help resulting in very greatly enlarged net receipts. Notwithstanding the showing made by Bethlehem and United States Steel in their annual reports, the market has become convinced that undue pessimism regarding the steel outlook is not warranted and, as a result, there has been a further upward movement of prices based upon the excellent volume of trade which has kept plants running at a large percentage of capacity, as well as upon the satisfactory and rising prices for steel products which the industry is able to charge without destroying demand. The building trades, which had shown some signs of recession, now apparently indicate ability to recover, with the result that values of materials as well as quotations of shares of companies manufacturing for these trades are again advancing.

CARLOADINGS AND VALUES

per week testifies to the size of the traffic that is moving over the roads, while large demands for the basic commodities, such as cement, steel and products thereof, lumber, coal and others of like sort, seem to insure a continuation of large transportation requirements far into the summer. Coal alone will continue for a long time to supply an important element of traffic, due to the fact that reserve stocks have been completely exhausted without the possibility of restoration during the winter season, which is now drawing to a close. Largely as a result of these conditions the earnings of Class 1 railroads for December show an unexpectedly good outcome, which has helped to pull the year's totals up to a better figure than had been expected. The net earnings of this group of roads for the month is approximately $78,000,000 and this signifies a total net earning for the twelve months of about $771,000,000. With Congress adjourning, probably without enacting any railroad legislation, the outlook for the year 1923 is obviously more favorable than heretofore and the effect has been to advance the prices of standard shares, in some cases, by several points at a single session, while reactions have usually been few and limited. Somewhat the same general conditions have tended to help the prices of public utility stocks which have shared with the railroads during the past year in showing

Dancing Dames Lucky Not To Live In Germany

The daughter of Valentine Kaufmann cannot go to the waiters' ball because she has no gown to wear. She has no gown because she has not the wherewithal to buy it. The gown she wanted cost $80,000 marks, which is more than her father, who works on the railroad, earned in two months. Thus complains Valentine Kaufmann of Niederprum, Germany, in a letter to Frank Schimpf. The postage on that letter cost the sender 150 marks. In previous times it would have cost only 5 or 10 pfennigs; the value of a mark then was about 24 cents in American money, that of a pfennig about one-fourth of a cent. The present value of the mark is about three-tenths of a cent.

Mr. Schimpf was billeted in Prussia for about seven weeks while in the army of occupation. "The Kaufmanns were very courteous and showed him the utmost hospitality," he said. Mr. Kaufmann has two sons and a daughter. The letter also complains bitterly of French inflation. A comparison of prewar and present food prices is as follows: Potatoes once 3 pf. a pound, now 15 marks; cornmeal once 8 pf., now 300 m.; wheat 20 pf., now 500 m. a pound; rice 1 m., 60 pf. now 400 m., per lb.; coffee 1 m. 40 pf., now 4,000 m.; stationery, 2 pf.; now 40 m.; soap 20 pf., now 500 m.; bread 70 pf., now 1.20 m.; petroleum oil 20 pf., now 450 m.; tobacco 20 pf., now 800 m.

ing better earnings and corresponding strength.

BRIGHTER OUTLOOK

The financial outlook is unmistakably brighter than heretofore. Secretary Mellon and President Harding have apparently a good prospect of success in eradicating the deficit which has been feared, and it would now seem probable that Congress will adjourn without going too far in excess of the budget estimate to neutralize the work of economy that has been carried forward. Practical certainty that the British debt payment plan will be ratified now appears to prevail among public men and this, apparently, looks to a more stable condition of Liberty bond prices due to the steady application of interest payments to the purchase of bonds, the same to be used in settling with the Government at the interest due dates. The financial community and in fact intelligent opinion among all classes throughout the country favors immediate ratification of the debt adjustment plan. From the banking standpoint, the month of January now appears as a period of slackened credit demand, resulting from better liquidation throughout the country and refusal of foreign credit, so that, in the aggregate, the strain on the banking system which was apparent through December has been very much lessened. Interest continues moderate and does not seem likely to undergo any great change in the near future. While the quotations of Continental exchange, naturally, are depressed in view of the disappointing political outlook, sterling has, of course, profited by the debt and other favorable conditions affecting it and has now moved up to a level from which it should be comparatively easy to advance it to par, whenever British financial authorities deem best.

FOREIGN DEVELOPMENTS

The breakdown of the Lausanne conference has, of course, been an unfortunate development, but it is hardly to be expected that this will be left to stand as at present. Already France and Great Britain are exchanging notes with respect to the adoption of an identical attitude towards the Turks, and it cannot be more than a question of time when some adjustment of the Near Eastern situation will be effected. In the Ruhr, the issue between France and Germany is as sharp as ever, although French authorities are beginning to understand that the enterprise is likely to be economically expensive for them rather than to bring them in any larger share of reparations. The public at large in this country is disposed to minimize the importance of the European controversy perhaps rather too much, developments of the past week in the market having tended to illustrate the inclination of operators there to be guided as largely as possible by domestic prospects rather than by foreign.

MARKET REVIEW

It is true that the general public is still inclined to await developments, but with the money situation in their favor, pool managers are again seeking to bring about a distribution of their special favorites. The fact that the prices of various stocks, particularly those in the specialty class, have advanced so decidedly during the past few days goes to show that the floating supply is not large, this being especially true of the rails. Leaders of the market evidently feel that, with conditions excellent, as they are in this country and with a pretty clear view ahead the time has now arrived for greater activity, which accounts for the prominence given to special stocks.

TO INVESTIGATE SOLDIER SCHEMES

Legion Post Aims To Check Sale Of War Magazines For Personal Gains

Once Johnston post of the American Legion will use its influence locally to stop the sale of publications purported to be issued in the interest of veterans of the world war and sold by transients, thus supplementing the movement inaugurated by the state legion department at its officers' conference in Milwaukee last week.

It has been found that magazines worth only a few cents are sold for 25 cents or more by solicitors who arouse the patriotic sympathy of the purchaser. The sales usually are for the profit of the individual.

Once Johnston post will try to discourage anything that is not in the interest of the American Legion or the disabled service men. Its officers will investigate the worth of the proposition and give a letter of indorsement by which the public may have a guide in patronizing the solicitor.

It is suggested by Henry J. Pettigrew, commander of the Appleton post, that people communicate with him or some officer of the post about any money-making scheme about which there is a doubt.

Still, it cannot be denied that the whole list is presenting a very healthy front—the railroads, in particular—on the expectation that there will be further dividend increases now that railroad earnings have again turned the corner. The placing of Chile on a dividend basis is good evidence, of course, that the copper metal situation is again pretty close to normal, which leads to the belief that other dividend announcements will be made in the near future. Aside from all these reasons, however, it is not unusual for the market to improve after it has had a January rest, so that its better appearance at the present time is history repeating itself.

SET STANDARD FOR WINDOW ENVELOPE

Postoffice Defines Conditions Under Which Container May Be Used

Although the postoffice department ordinarily objects to the use of window envelopes, yet because of their extreme popularity, it will permit their use, provided certain conditions are complied with, Postmaster Zuehlke has been advised.

The windows must have the greatest possible degree of transparency, and the inclosure must be of only such a color as will permit of a clear and legible address. It is necessary that the envelope bear a proper return address. Manufacturers of this kind of stationery have been notified of the requirements and jobbers and retailers are urged to handle only those envelopes that are mailable.

The window must be parallel with the length of the envelope and must be free from glaze. No printing and advertising is permitted around the window nor where it interferes with the postmark, forwarding address, etc. The stationery enclosed must be white or of a light color; must be

His blue eyes under their black lashes roved over the dancers with a bright bold glance.

As the couples drifted out again Lola Sanchez, a living flower in her black and scarlet, came down the room in the arms of a big blond boy, her small face upturned, her coquette's heart playing the old game in her dusky eyes.

And then—the boy swung her past the door and she looked up full into the smiling face of the stranger.

"Valentrie!" she breathed to herself.

"What?" asked the boy, but she did not hear.

From that moment she forgot him utterly.

When the dance ended Lola stopped as if by accident—something about the tiny slipper that encased her light foot—bent and straightened it—close by the door. As she rose, quick as a willow wand released she looked into Valentrie's eyes and her own were eloquent.

"Master!" she murmured in Spanish, so low that none but he caught the soft word.

"Who's th' chap th' door?" the blond boy asked suspiciously, but Lola looked up innocent.

"Which one?" she asked and the suspicion died.

The newcomers did not dance. They had come because Valentrie gave the word because he chose to look upon Santa Leandra at her merry-making and that was all.

Valentrie did not dance either. There was none whom he knew upon the floor save and except the small girl who called him master and the only smile with amusement as he watched her.

But Lola Sanchez's quick little brain was working and she meant to change that very soon. Therefore she sent the least of her followers, a meek, brown Mexican, unnoticeable in the crowd, to whisper something in the fiddler's ear.

And then the music stopped, the crowds drifted to the benches and the fiddler was tuning his fiddle to another key.

He tucked the fiddle in his neck and began abruptly to play—and no one called this number.

"What a swift, beautiful music it was Spanish to the core."

It lifted and soared at regular intervals there came a thum of the bass that sounded like the stroke of a foot upon the floor. And then softly, like a leaf before a wind, Lola Sanchez came drifting down the floor alone. From some where as if by magic she had drawn a pair of castanets and these began to snap and click as her hands moved about her head.

Ah she was a beautiful thing! Young, slim, small graceful as a gazelle, her little body bent and swayed whirled and dipped and circled like a flame in the breeze.

Stamp—whirl—bend—hand waving, castanets clicking, she went down the long room, circled its farther end and came drifting up along the other side.

Necks were craned, feet drawn back to give her room for she was dancing close. And then, suddenly, it seemed she was opposite Valentrie where he stood beside the door.

Out to the center she went as if she spurned the crowd then swift as a winged thing she darted toward him threw back her little head smiled straight in his eyes and held out her hands palms up.

It was a challenge direct daring pretty.

For one second the man hesitated. Then he tossed his broad hat to those behind sprang forward and caught those outstretched hands.

Lola's eyes were liquid light as she drew him into the clear, snatched her head away, tossed them above her head and began to dance in earnest.

The stranger too began to dance and those who watched saw instantly that the girl had made no false choice of partners. He placed a hand on his belted hip raised the other to touch her clicking fingers now and again and he, too, swayed and dipped and circled, though in a lesser fashion to give background to her brilliance, the subtle and perfect accompaniment to a wonderful performance.

Lola was a rose in the night, a wind in the twilight, a laugh and a jest and a challenge Valentrie the stranger, was a young tree in a storm, a cloud hard blown by winds and the thunder of his booted heels rolled under the lightning of the castanets.

"Great makes!" said Perly, softly, "ain't that amazin'?"

He spoke to nobody in particular.

but the blond boy who stood beside him cleared his throat as if with an effort and Val Hannon on the other side glanced up. The boy's face was pale as milk and his blue eyes were narrowed to cold points.

Down the room and back again went the two. Lola was all about Valentrie, cooing, spurring, challenging, and all the while her little face was full of light that shone for all to see.

As if by artless chance she drew the figure gracefully toward the far side of the floor, directly before the blond boy, and she was utterly irresistible. Butterflies in the breeze, stars that glittered, fires at night—she was all of them and men's hearts throbbed drunkenly to behold her.

And then as the music rose to one last keening, she flew straight to Valentrie, sank backward in his reaching arm and held up her flower face toward him unmistakable in its intent its invitation.

Half under the spell the man hesitated a fraction of a second. The perfect action of the steps and the music lost its first beat in that second wait. Lola's face glowed deeper—and Valentrie bent.

"But—" came a choking whisper as the blond boy, gray as ashes and cold, reached to his hip.

There was a flash of metal, a "snap forward"—and in that second Val Hannon beside him dropped a lightning-quick hand on his shoulder and swung him round in action—as she had so often swung her dad. There was a catch a shot that went wild and landed in Hannon's tray on the platform's edge across the room and Valentrie arrested halfway to Lola's smitten hip—looked straight past the boy and into the blazing black eyes of the girl who had saved his life.

For one sharp moment the tension held.

Then Valentrie slowly straightened up and Lola shined from his arm forgotten as she had forgotten the blond boy. He stood still breathing hard, his blue eyes fastened on Val's face a frown between them.

From all sides men crowded in, pushed between and hustled the boy away while from the other side of the room Valentrie's followers came like a bolt, solid packed, then faces aflame and keen their hands on their guns.

"Steady, boys," said Valentrie, "there's nothing wrong."

Then he made one stride to Val, reached out a hand and smiled. It was the brilliant lighting of his face like fire behind a curtain that was his chiefest charm.

I've had many a close call he said simply, and have done some sharp tricks to beat them myself but I never saw a prettier piece of work than this.

The quick thought of the quick action—they were like a man, a keen man used to desperate chances and I never saw a woman before who could think and act like that. If you knew me, he finished frankly, "perhaps you would not like my hand. But I want to thank you."

Gravely Val looked full into the brilliant eyes. The light and the laughter of the earlier night were gone from his face, who she could not have told to save her life, yet it was not because of the near tragedy that she knew.

"Yes," she said as simply, "I will take your hand."

And her firm brown fingers closed around his in a strong clasp. The smile died on the man's face and he looked into hers for another long moment.

Then he loosened her hand and turned away.

I shall not forget," he said. Instantly his men closed about him, their matched faces across the floor among the crowd which fell back from them filed compactly out the door and were gone.

The celebration was over in Santa Leandra. Tum-sheds rode through the dust and cool twilight that pressed the city and the demerits of the rangeland scattered for another year.

It was mid-morning when they rode into Paradise and far off Val shaded her eyes with her hand and searched the familiar place.

"Boys," she said at last, "there's something wrong at home. The order is all in and hanging around the corner. There's dad—he's waiting for us."

There was something wrong at Paradise indeed.

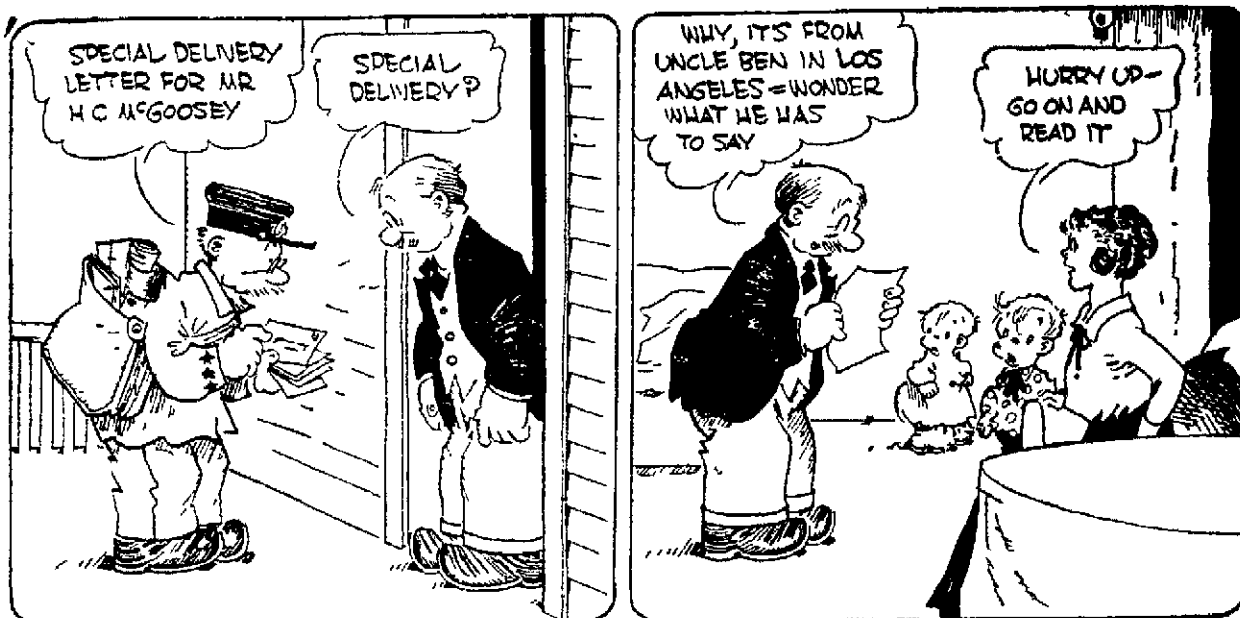

John Hannon met them at the corner of the great house and his face bore signs of strain. His dark eyes were cold and narrow.

NEED LEADER LIKE LINCOLN TO DEFEND U.S.

Dr. Rall At C. Of C. Banquet
Points Out Endangering
Of Nation's Ideals

Influences which today are endangering the principles of democracy for which Abraham Lincoln so bravely stood were defined by Dr. Harris Franklin Rall in his address on "Lincoln and Democracy" at the chamber of commerce forum banquet in the Venetian room of Conway hotel Monday evening. Drawing a parallel between the "National Crisis of Lincoln's time and the conditions today, the speaker declared that the country is having the same battle over again to save the unity of the nation. His attack was leveled at two things, the growth of the Ku Klux Klan and the tendency to appeal to extra legal forces, either of violence or extreme governmental measures. This was the second banquet leveled at the Ku Klux Klan in a week by a speaker in a gathering here.

The speaker traced the virtues of Lincoln which made for democracy, dwelling strongly on his understanding of and regard for the common man. Pointing to the faith of Lincoln in men, in the principles of freedom and in the honesty of common folks in settling problems, and in the great leader's sense of responsibility and his convictions as a part of democratic faith, Dr. Rall, after outlining the nation's problems today, pleaded for the need of a leader who would have a stern, clear mind, a fine spirit of tolerance and a good will such as characterized this man.

CARNEROS CHAIRMAN
R. E. Carneros, forum chairman, presided and Dr. W. S. Naylor introduced the speaker. The invocation was offered by the Rev. J. L. Menzner. Miss Margaret Austin of Lawrence Conservatory of Music led the community singing and Mrs. Mildred Saunders acted as accompanist. Attractive Lincoln souvenir programs were at each plate.

Lothar G. Graef, president, took charge during the election of a nominating committee which will prepare a ballot of directors, five of whom are to be elected next month. Nominations for the committee included John R. Diederich, Julius Kahn, William H. Zuehlke, O. P. Schlafier, John Morgan, H. C. Humphrey, C. C. Hockley, Dr. M. J. Sandborn, J. C. Hyde and W. F. McGowan. The five elected were Mr. Diederich, Mr. Kahn, Mr. Zuehlke, Mr. Humphrey and Mr. McGowan.

H. L. Post spoke for a few minutes explaining the purpose of the Fathers Association of Appleton High school and urging attendance at a meeting next Monday evening. Henry J. Pettigrew, commander of Onee Johnstons post of the American Legion, and H. B. Little, vice commander, were guests of honor. Mr. Pettigrew was called upon for a talk and explained the ideals and program of the legion. He declared the legion desires to be a community asset and wants to take up the burdens which the Grand Army of the Republic is relinquishing as the years go on. Officers of the G. A. R. had been invited to attend the dinner but were prevented because of the weather.

INSPIRING SPEAKER
The address of Dr. Rall was an inspiring analysis of the principles on which Abraham Lincoln based his beliefs and convictions. He whetted again in his hearers that inspiration for the ideals set up by this great man, reviewing the simplicity of Lincoln's life and the remarkable fact of his ascendancy to power and influence from the most meager beginnings.

Lincoln believed, said the speaker, the rights of men as men came first of all in a democracy; that the rights of achievement and expression were the highest things a government could give its children. He placed value on the public discussion by which there could be deep study of national problems, and thus a solution that was wise and born of a desire to give justice to all.

It is not easy to trust common folks in the handling of government problems, said Dr. Rall, but this was the very thing Lincoln was willing to do. Mistakes have been made, but given the privilege of free discussion, the farmer, the man with the dinner pail, the man behind the counter, the professional man or others in the common walks of life would settle the big questions honestly.

SERVED FELLOW MEN
No one could read the story of Lincoln's life, the speaker declared, without knowing how keenly Lincoln felt his obligation to his fellow men, never seeking selfishly for honor. It was not Lincoln's aim merely to find out the wishes of the majority, but to discover what was the right thing between man and man.

Problems of democracy are new for every age, but the principles are the same, Dr. Rall said. The issues of today are not so clearly defined as in Lincoln's time. There is not a single great problem, but many. Some of the fundamental principles of this nation are in danger today, one of these is the question of significance of human personality.

In the Ku Klux Klan is found a movement capitalizing all prejudices, religious, race hatred and class distinctions. The speaker quoted the words of the Imperial Wizard of this veiled order in which it was asserted that only the Anglo-Saxon race should have supremacy.

Communist moves to overthrow the government and extra legal measures such as the raids made by A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney general, were defined as tendencies dangerous to democracy. The whole industrial situation is a problem also, it was said, because there cannot be an industrial autocracy and a political democracy side by side.

Over 300 Poems Submitted In Contest Closing Today

With more than 300 poems submitted to the judges, the Mother Poetry Contest conducted by the Post-Crescent closed at noon today. Poems received after 12 o'clock today will not be considered in selecting the prize winners which will be announced on Wednesday. The prizes aggregate $10 to be divided as follows: $5 for first prize, $3 for second and $2 for third prize. The prize winning poems will be printed on Wednesday.

The contest has been a huge success judging from the number of poems entered and the quality of the contributions. Several gems of expressions of love for mother have been received and they will be valuable additions to that type of poetry.

The judges, who are English teachers in Appleton schools, are well qualified to pass on the merits of the contributions. Their basis of judgment will be originality, metre, sentiment, rhyme and neatness. The judges will be supplied with the standard works of poetry in order to check up on contributions which do not appear to be original.

Poems were received from as far away as Florida, Nebraska, Maine and Virginia. Some came from Chicago, others from Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Superior and Merrill. Wherever the Post-Crescent is read amateur poets followed the urge to write of their love for mother in the Valentine season. The pity is that all the poems that have been submitted cannot be published. Space limitations do not permit it.

Following are a few of the poems selected at random from the large number submitted over the week end:

Oh Mother O' Mine, If you but knew
How my thoughts are all of you
How I worship at your shrine
On this day of Valentine
Remembering all the things you did
For me when I was a "kid."
Reward in Heaven will be thine
Mother Dear, My Valentine. C. F.

God implanted in each mother's heart
A love almost divine,
No love can ever take its place, it is
There for all the time.
It is there for all occasions; in sickness
And in health,
In prosperity, or misfortune, in all
Life's woes, 'till death.
When she is laid beneath the lowly sod—
The mother love still hovers right to
The throne of God.
In pleading, intercessions and sanctifying prayer,
The mothers love eternal.
When she meets you there, M. C. N.

A Tribute To Mother
I know of someone that is kind and
That is true,
One that is always ready, has a sweet
Smile for you.
And of one whose heart and love,
Is as tender as can be,
When little ills, or little ailments
Come passing over thee.
And when we look into this great wide
World of ours,
Of all things which are most beautiful,
The bees and the flowers,
We find there is no other love, so
Noble and true,
As the most sweet love of a Mother,
Which God created for you, T. K.

My Mother
I am sure that when God made my Mother,
He could not have patterned from Another.
For my Mother's as different as can be
From just an average Mother, don't You see?
She's the best, the sweetest, the Noblest, too—
The superlative degree, through and Through.
That is why I say there is no other
Quite as dear and lovely as My Mother.
M. P. M.

Pictures
Playing in the orchard,
Climbing in the trees,
Chasing little butterflies
And catching humming bees.
Fearing Mothers ples and cakes
And sitting near her chair,
Dear God give me one good wish—
"Please leave my Mother here." M. J.

To My Pal
Some sing of mothers old and gray
Who seem like some pure saints of yore,
But now, my mother's not that way
She scolds me when I mess her floor
Or raid the jam jar back the door,
And yet as pal she is true blue,
And every day we love her more
Because she's "mother" through and through. M. J.

My Mother
Heaven on earth—
A mother's love—
God gave it birth
In Heaven above—
A love sincere
Adorned with grace
He lent us here
To take His place. M. J. C.

In Appreciation
Send low while I whisper within your ear
This Valentine message I want you to hear.
No matter how great a success I may be,
Nor what life may deal me as my destiny,
If I reach the high mark you have set for me
Or may efforts be sunken in futility.

I'll thank God through endless eternity
For the inspiring mother he gave to me.
A. S. P.

Mother's Substitute
You gave me the joys of my boyhood days,
Awarded my efforts with words of praise,
Soothed all of my troubles, eased away
Pain,
And helped me to master the rules
Of the game.
So today I am sending my love to you,
Dad,
Since you're all the mother that I've ever had. A. S. P.

A Valentine to My Mother
I need not ask you Mother mine
If you will be my Valentine
The world would surely cease to be
If your love was not meant for me
Your mine, but here's my greeting true
With all my love expressed anew.
R. S.

A Thought
Within my heart I have a thet,
My precious mother lives.
Within her life great joys she's brought,
She breathes, she loves, she gives,
And then again that happy thought,
Dear God I'm glad she lives.
L. L.

knee—
Could we but feel your presence near

And she prays that you'll remember,

How she used to hold you to her,

How she used to hug and kiss you,

Mr. C. A. Allen, R. R. No. 2, Bondurant, Iowa, gives testimony to the healing power of Pe-ru-na. Influenza left him much run down in health with catarrh of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes punctuated with attacks of asthma. He writes:

"While recovering from the Influenza I was so weak I could not gain any strength for two months. The latter part of the winter, I bought six bottles of Pe-ru-na and began taking it. My weight increased to 175 pounds, the most I ever weighed.

My usual winter weight is 155. If you can use this letter for any good, you are perfectly welcome." Such evidence cannot fail to convince the rankest unbeliever of the merits of Pe-ru-na. Insist upon having the old and original remedy for catarrhal conditions. Sold Everywhere Tablets or Liquid

Preparations are being completed for handling the filing of current returns on federal income tax in the local revenue office in the city hall. Miss E. M. Hillburg, deputy revenue collector, will offer services to income taxpayers between Feb. 20 and March 15, the last day for filing. This service is offered free of charge and those desiring assistance should call on the deputy as early as possible during the above-mentioned period, bringing with them all the data necessary to render a true return of income.

A revenue agent will be at the office March 7 to 15 to assist corporations in filing their returns. Until now the work of the local office has been chiefly in the nature of checking up amended or delinquent returns of last year.

U. S. TO TEACH FIRST AID TO QUARRY WORKERS

The time will come when quarries and gravel pits will be as thoroughly equipped to render first aid to injured employees as any other industry. Arrangements have been made by the state industrial commission whereby the United States bureau of mines will give first aid training to such employees.

Included in the schedule of meetings are: Fond du Lac, city hall, March 6 to 8; Red Granite, March 13

Jimmy Smith, "world's greatest," did and didn't live up to his reputation as king performer with the bowling ball when he stepped into first place in the singles division of the tournament of the Wisconsin Elks bowling association Monday night and at the same time slipped in the doubles and five-man events. Smith took first place in the singles with a score of 650, sixteen pins better than the mark made nearly two weeks ago by H. Halsey, another Milwaukee B. P. O. E.

The distinguished visitor's total in all events was 1,901, or an average of 200 pins for the nine games. Smith and his running mate, T. Sampson, shot 1,069 in the doubles. Smith's score was 581. The king of ten pin performers only rolled 570 as anchor man for the B. P. O. E. 337 team of Appleton.

SPENDS STRENUOUS DAY

Smith's slump in the five-man contest probably was due to the lateness of the game. It was started after midnight and the Milwaukeean had been performing all day at Green Bay and part of the evening here. At Green Bay Mr. Smith virtually copped the all-events prize with a score of 1,961, smashing the previous state mark of 1,946 and going better than the big mark established by Anderson of Kenosha in the Elks shooting here this year. Smith's average in the Bay shooting was nearly 218 pins for the nine games. He shot 651 in the five-man events, 638 in the doubles and 672 in the singles.

GALLERY WAITS LONG TIME

The Elks "gallery" filled early but the ten pin followers and the Elks tournament committee, made up of Walter K. Miller and J. F. Johnston and James H. Balliet, paced the floor or warmed the benches until nearly 10:30. The snow covered roads delayed the arrival of Smith and Sampson from Green Bay nearly two and one-half hours.

The visiting pair shot in the doubles first with W. Jacobson and H. Dawson. Appletonians assigned to keep the visitors company. They finished up the doubles as follows:

MILWAUKEE DOUBLES
T. Sampson, 174, 155, 139—468
J. Smith, 182, 209, 180—581
Total, 1,069

APPLETON DOUBLES
W. Jacobson, 196, 179, 190—565
H. Dawson, 149, 177, 161—487
Total, 1,052

Smith blew in the last two frames of the first game of the doubles. He started off the game with a "horse shoe," at least that's the impression the "mixer" gave when the pins wobbled and stood for the other artists. In the second game Smith missed two easy splits but he managed to pass the 200 mark. He erred in the last frame of the third game. Sampson had three errors and five splits in his doubles. His shooting was a bit reckless at the start.

Jacobson was probably the most consistent performer in the doubles. A split in the last frame stopped him from getting more than 200 in the first game.

DAWSON HAS HARD LUCK
Real hard luck befell Dawson. After getting a poor start he bumped into six splits of which he cleaned up two. In the singles Dawson gave way entirely due to a bad laceration of the thumb and he was forced to finish shooting with a glove. Both Appletonians blew often in the singles. Sampson shooting in the first game of the Green Bay—Jimmy Smith, Milwaukee, champion of the world for sixteen years went into lead in the all events at the Wisconsin Bowling association tournament here on Monday by registering 1,961 pins. His marks were, five men, 651; doubles, 638, singles, 672.

By his remarkable performance Smith not only assumes the lead in the nine game division but also smashes his way into sixth place in the singles. It was in the individual event that Smith got his biggest count, knocking over 258 pins.

Other members of the Smith Arcade team, Milwaukee's crack lineup, showed to good advantage in the singles and doubles. Gus Jonas, after two brilliant games that netted 465, dropped to 165 in the closing effort and totaled 631. Ehike, Becker and Grossman also are in the finance column. Charley Hoyer and his partner, Doc O'Donovan, are perched atop the doubles with a 1,258 total, which they accumulated in a scintillating performance on Monday. Hoyer's share was 662.

A flock of scorers beyond the 600 mark were recorded by the array of invaders on Monday. Leaders quaked under the heavy bombardment and, as previously chronicled, several were relegated to lower positions.

Rodenbeck and Knuth of Milwaukee are in second place in the doubles with 1,251, while Jos Dominick and Johnny Koeck, of the Cream City, are in third position with 1,222 pins. A poor second game by Koeck, in which he got a meager 145 total, knocked the Pigmees out of a chance for the high mark.

8 APPLETON TEAMS INVADE BAY TODAY

Eight of Appleton's crack teams will invade Green Bay Tuesday and Wednesday for state bowling laurels. Six quints are scheduled to start the "fireworks" Tuesday. They are the Continentals, Harvey Eden, captain; Oshkosh, George Jimm, captain; Rainbow Gardens, J. F. Johnston, captain; Elks 337, R. Meyer, captain; F. O. E. 574, Barney Welhouse, captain; Kunitz O. K. Taxis, H. Dawson, captain. The Arcades No. 1, Henry Strutz, captain; and Arcades No. 2, Al Jense, captain, will roll on Wednesday.

Members of the teams are enrolled in all events and as the result will be busy at the Bay until Thursday.

Old Timers To Meet Fondy Net Veterans

The old-timers volleyball team of the Y. M. C. A., the first volleyball team of that institution, will go to Fond du Lac next Wednesday evening to play the old-timers team and the first team of the Y. M. C. A. of that city. The old-timers regular is composed of men more than 50 years of age and will be selected from the following: Dr. Samuel Plantz, Dr. H. E. Peabody, Dr. W. S. Naylor, P. J. Harwood, Frank Wright, Dr. J. H. Tippet, Dr. O. P. Fairchild, Richard VanWyk and John Bushey.

single was also punctuated with an error and a split. He improved as the games went along.

Here are the individual games in the singles:

MILWAUKEE SINGLES
Smith, 650, 175, 180—1,005
Sampson—182, 209, 180—581
APPLETON SINGLES
Jacobson—196, 179, 190—565
Dawson—149, 177, 161—487
Here's the five-man game:

B. P. O. E. 337
Monaghan, 150, 146, 187, 483
Weber, 168, 162, 169, 499
J. Balz, 123, 135, 177, 536
R. Meyer, 123, 135, 177, 429
J. Smith, 185, 193, 192, 570
Total, 834, 879, 874, 2,587

Due to the elaborate preparations for the distinguished visitors there was no other activity on the Elk boards. Kenosha teams are scheduled to play Tuesday. Oshkosh and Appleton teams which were originally mapped to shoot Monday may roll also. The principal attraction Tuesday, however, will be the exhibition work of Smith at 8 o'clock this evening.

Wolpin Is K. O. Artist

WILLIAM WOLPIN

Herewith we present the first view of Bill Wolpin, the sturdy middleweight from Minneapolis who came to Appleton to make his home in an effort to revive the boxing game here. Boxing has been all in this city since the McGorty Gorman scrap two years ago. Wrestling, with George Hill as the main attraction, took up the fans' attention for a while but now there seems to be a real demand for the fistie game.

Wolpin, who will battle Jack Duffy, the east coast and Chicago flash, is a real tough kid with a knockout punch. Among the boys Wolpin has put to sleep is Sturdy O'Leary who went down before the attacks of the middleweight in the fourth round. Al White was knocked out by Wolpin in one round; Artie Selagies in six rounds; Buck Jackson in seven rounds.

BEATS McLAUGHLIN

Wolpin also defeated Vic McLaughlin in eight rounds. Wolpin got his lessons in the boxing game from such men as Harry Greb and Harry Wills, whom he helped train for bouts on different occasions. Wolpin's last fight was with Jimmy Nuss of DePere at Newberry, Mich. Wolpin entered the ring with a broken nose, as the result of his training with Greb. The fight was halted in the sixth round by Dr. R. E. Gibson, of the Michigan commission, when a stiff punch caused the nose to bleed and made further fighting impossible.

BATTLE THURSDAY NIGHT

Wolpin is training in Morgenroth's gym in Milwaukee. He will be in Appleton Wednesday and with Duffy who came here Monday, will weigh in at 13 o'clock on Thursday afternoon. Wolpin is making a big hit in Milwaukee according to word from that city. It is understood that Cream City promoters are seeking to book him up with Bill Emke who beat Nuss lately. In a letter to Henry J. Belzer of this city and to his Manager Jimmy Reynolds, Wolpin writes that he is training with the assistance of Johnny Tillman and Jack Zwiek. Every morning he does a bit of roadwork and boxes in the afternoon and evening. He writes that he is in good shape and somewhat underweight.

PLENTY OF MILLING

Twenty-six rounds of boxing will be offered the fight hungry fans. With the exception of the opener all the prelims will have Appleton fighters and for this reason it is expected that the turnout will be big enough to assure other cards for the season.

The show will start with a four round affair between Bill Zwiek of Kaukauna and King Schwels of Hor tonville. The lads will tip the beams at 108 pounds. The next on the program will be six rounds of milling between Lee Rockner and Billy McCarthy, Appleton products who will weigh about 150 pounds. Both lads have fought considerably and are preparing to give each other a run in order to establish a footing for themselves in the community.

The semi windup Promoter For Johnston will present Ray Roberts of Appleton and Gene Frecheto, Negaunee, Mich., battler. This will be a six round scrap. The boys are middleweights.

BENTON CASE IS UP FOR DECISION

Big League Magnates Hold Cash Register Concert In New York

New York—The last regular winter concert of the National league's famous cash register orchestra will be given here this week with a string obligato from the wind instruments.

The hiring of athletes of both big circuits will make ready, meantime, for the shock of resuming regular meals in the training camps. As a special feature of this last grand concert, Uncle Charley Ebbers of the Brooklyn Dodgers will give a solo selection on the nickel key of his famous one way cash register (although this key plays only one note, which is "dough"). Uncle Charley by long and loving practice on it has learned to play the entire anthem of the Dodgers. "Every little bit added to what you get makes just a little bit more."

It appears that Uncle Charley's ball club will not work for him this summer unless there is a regular reciprocal flow of money from the cash register to compensate them for the money which they cause to flow in Dutch Reuther, or pitcher of the Dodgers, refuses to run any ball games for Uncle Charley unless he gets about $2,000 more than the famous virtuoso of the keys will give him. Zach Wheat, the veteran of many campaigns in Flatbush where the simple great hero pitch their tents on the rugged country side, also desires more money. Uncle Charley can find plenty of people to lose ball games for him at a moderate price, but men who can win them come higher and higher.

Among the selections on the program of the cash register orchestra is a heavy, complicated opus from the pen of the great Rhineeland composer, Henry Garry Herrmann of Cincinnati, entitled "Vot Should Ve Did About Rube Benton?" It is a question whether the orchestra, will play this piece through from beginning to end as the magnates would rather forego the pleasure of mastering a difficult composition than play it and smash the cash registers which are very delicate instruments. However, the Benton case must be settled.

CORRY AND M'COY COP IVORY MATCH

Corry and McCoy won their challenge match of pocket billiards shot Monday night on the Carr and Hansen tables by a 100 to 68 score. A large gallery saw the tilt. It is quite possible that the losers will seek to even matters in the near future.

The rival concert of the no less famous American league cash register symphony orchestra will be held in Philadelphia with a basso obligato by the world famous Lazio virtuoso, Ben Johnson of Chicago, composer of the classic allegorical melody: "Blah, Blah!"

After these concerts are over the athletes will begin to perform in the training camps, the holdouts will get $10 raises and the merry peal of the musical tumblers, another favorite musical device of the magnates, will be heard through the land.

ORGANIZE HOCKEY TEAM IN APPLETON

Game Arranged With Neenah For Sunday, February 25

Appleton promises to get on the hockey map. A team of hockey players has been organized this week, and a game has been arranged with Neenah for Feb. 25 in Appleton. The Paper City outfit will be known as the Appleton Monarchs.

Henry Kahner, former hockey star on the Humboldt high school squad in St. Paul and now a student at Lawrence, is the organizer of the outfit and will manage the team. Kahner also will play. Assisting in the training will be Russell Spoor. Among the players will be Walter Bell, Percy Sharp, "Chick" Prasher, Joseph Sharp, Henry Rammer, "Duck" Schultz and Tom Lempe. Practice will start this week.

The hockey club has been created as the result of the interest started in winter sports by The Post-Crescent skating carnival. Nearly all of the Monarchs were winners in the ice tourney.

Manager Kahner wants games. Hockey team pilots are instructed to address Mr. Kahner, 1176 Lawrence-st.

TRACTORS WIN 12 OUT OF 17 GAMES

Menasha Team Home After Most Successful Trip—Appleton Men Star

The U. S. Tractor basketball team of Menasha has just completed the most extensive, as well as most successful tour ever made by a team from this part of the country. The trip ended Friday night when the Tractor boys upset all dope by handing the Company I team of Portage their first defeat of the season, 30 to 20.

Seventeen games were played with the strongest teams in Minnesota, Iowa and western Wisconsin. The Tractors won 12 and lost 5 games. Madison, the scoring wizard who was so largely responsible for the Tractor team winning the district tournament at the Appleton "J" last spring, was at his best during the entire trip, his unerring eye for the basket accounting for 102 field goals, an average of six to the game. Scharf, the sensational 6 ft. 2. in. center contributed his share by out-scoring his opposing centers by nearly 30 field goals. On defense, the excellent work of Nathan Bloomer, the former Appleton High school star guard, who did his share in bringing the state championship to Appleton in 1921, was one of the outstanding features of all of the games played. Kandler, an all-around man who could play at any position, and Cam Bushey, alternating at forward and guard completed a lineup that was more than a match for a large percentage of the strong teams met.

YANKS PAID HUGE PRICE FOR PENNOCK

New York—On the face value of the bonds and chattels exchanged the Yanks have purposely taken the worst of it in the deal with Boston. In the judgment of astute baseball people Herb Pennock is not worth George Murray, Norman McMillan and Camp Skinner.

But the Yanks think they have got the one man who will make it possible for them to win the 1923 pennant. The future years can take care of themselves.

Consequently, perhaps, the Yank owners have been influenced by the old axiom of John McGraw and Ned Hanlon: "This is the pennant to win. Get the one fellow who can do the trick and never mind the cost or the future."

To win the pennant the Yanks had to have a left hander—not merely a left hander, but a left hander of note. No amount of money it seemed could buy Pennock. So they paid in kind—and paid dear.

In giving up Pennock, Frazee certainly excused his pound of flesh. But the Yanks got their man.

Most baseball men regard George Murray alone as of more intrinsic value than Pennock. Murray is a coming star. Pennock is an old one with perhaps two years to go. But Murray is not a sou-waster. Had he been a cocky the Yanks wouldn't have swapped him for Pennock and two other Boston players. He simply didn't fill the gap. Pennock does. The man needed in an emergency is cheap at any price. Frazee knew that the Yank owners appreciated that fact. He wisely took advantage of the situation to strengthen his own team.

The Red Sox needed a third baseman badly. They also wanted another outfielder and a good right handed pitcher. When Frazee demanded McMillan and Skinner in addition to Murray he did not expect such terms to be accepted. In fact, the Yank owners twice declined it.

As a result of this surprising deal the Boston team is materially strengthened. The Yanks are simply taking a chance. With Dugan on hand they did not need McMillan. Neither did they need Skinner. So why not gamble on the one big shoot? At any rate, it can't be said that Frazee has weakened the Red Sox to build up the Yanks.

Artist Series
Jap Play To Be Given Friday

Perhaps the most unusual number of the entire Community Lecture and Artist series will take place at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Friday evening. At that time, Mr. and Mrs. Michitaro Angawa will present a program of Japanese plays, music and dancing.

People who have seen and heard the Japanese pair say the program is interesting and novel. The artists appear in costume and are said to give a faithful picture of the picturesque and poetic side of Japanese life. The manner in which they present it is charming and artistic.

Six Dollar Values Offered
For Dollar In Thursday Sale

Hats, slippers, waists, combinations of meat, combinations of groceries, blankets, stockings, ties and hundreds of other articles will go on "the block" on Thursday when Appleton merchants cooperate in their semi-annual "Dollar Day" sale. If one should attempt to list all the things that will be bargains at $1 on Thursday it would take a couple of columns of this newspaper and a couple of days to get all the data together. Some of the merchants are offering articles Thursday for a dollar for which they want five and six dollars today. If that isn't giving bargains then the merchants here are willing to admit they don't know a good buy when they see one.

Sales, bargain events, dollar days and all that sort of thing don't mean much unless they are just what they are advertised to be. The dollar day that will be observed on Thursday is that kind of a day. Merchants are determined that what they offer shall be real bargains. For instance, one merchant is offering four pairs of men's hose and a baseball for a dollar; another is willing to sell seven pairs of men's hose, regular prices 25 cents to 45 cents a pair, for a single one dollar bill. A reporter also found a merchant who is offering shoes selling regularly at more than $5 to bargain seekers for a dollar.

There are lots of bargains like that and a lots more better in all the stores that are cooperating in this sale. If there are any people in Appleton who fail to visit the stores on Thursday they are going to miss something worthwhile.

SCHOOL CLUB MEMBERS HAVE LINCOLN PROGRAM

The Seventh and Eighth Grade club of the Fourth ward school had a program on Lincoln at its meeting on Friday. The roll call was answered with epigrams from Lincoln and the program was given by members of the club. The children plan their own programs and have Miss Rita Verhulst as critic.

The meeting was opened with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner." Miss Hattie Reffke spoke on the early life and home of Lincoln. Harold Drexler discussed his education, Mae Hayes told of Lincoln in politics and law, Catherine Williams told of his death and Bonnylyn Bell told of his character.
